

Paola Native Serves as Congressional Intern in Moran's Washington, D.C. Office

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Congressman Jerry Moran announced that Francesca Chambers is serving as a congressional intern in his Washington, D.C. office. Chambers is a 2006 graduate of Paola High School in Paola.

“Congressional internships offer Kansas students a great opportunity to learn about Congress and the legislative process,” Moran said. “Francesca is doing important work for Kansans and gaining valuable experience that will help her in the future.”

Chambers is a senior at the University of Kansas and is majoring in journalism and political science. After graduation, she hopes to continue working on Capitol Hill.

“Working in Congressman Moran’s office has been a humbling experience,” Chambers said. “By listening to the concerns of Kansans and learning about the legislative process, I’ve gained a better understanding of how decisions made in Washington effect Kansans back home.”

Chambers assists Moran with legislative and administrative duties on behalf of the people of Kansas.

Kansans interested in applying for a Congressional internship in Washington, D.C., Hays, Hutchinson and Salina, can learn more by visiting Congressman Jerry Moran's website: www.jerrymoran.house.gov. The deadline for the summer 2010 term is Friday, March 5, 2010.
